

I'm gonna put it to you like this
I don't want this to come to fists
But the bottom line is that you've reached the top of my shit list
Two trains on the same track and you can bet you and I we are going to bang heads
Friendship unraveling like yarn through we share a common thread
I know your not blind so why can't you see
The curtain that has been drawn between you and me
A friendship that has eroded with time like a mountain into the sea

You wanted to make your dreams a reality
But your reality is now a dream
Are you the person that you really want to be
Or a fraction of the friend who once knew me

Done more harm than you could ever afford
Open your heart and you're sure to find more
In life than you can find at a local liquor store
Your personality has been seduced
By chemicals you over abuse
You're in a tailspin and there is nothing you can do
Your shenanigans used to amuse me
But I've grown tired of your tomfoolery
This running joke is way past its prime and way past decency

A vodka tonic a day will keep the memory away
Yore not conscious when you are awake
Drink and drive don't care who dies
Motherfucker you've been risking lives
You could be the one who won't Survive