Young and Dead

A Global Threat

t the shows and on the street

Some punks just won't accept you think differently

The way you live it was the wrong way to be

Vegetarian or not, drug free or drunk

There's always someone who says you're not a punk

They're always somebody who tells you that you're wrong

We bitch about what we see on the daily news

But we cant accept each others views

Bow what will we do at the end of our fuse

And now we're young and dead

Instead of respecting our differences in thought
We waste time arguing about what's right and what is not
And some revert to all the violence they've been taught
Opinions vary on what is Punk and what it does
But its not anything until we've earned each others trust
And if it ever happens it is by the fault of all of us
There's two options out there for the youth
Just two options and we've got to choose
United we win, divided we lose

And now we're young and dead

Think about your views
The lifestyle that you choose
And find out what it means to you

Some have had a negative outlook on it from the start How can you ignore when something's coming from the heart If nothing can unite us and nothing's worth a chance Then why are we all singing what they're telling us we can't

You've buried any bridge we've come across
And you're the reason for the battles we've lost
When you fight your war just don't forget the cost

And now we're young and dead

Think about your views
The lifestyle that you choose
And find out what it means to you
