

...in Anything under the Sun

A Life Once Lost

with a simple blink of an eye the trumpeter stops
he has run out of breath
he drops to his knees
to regain his breath panting and gasping for as much air as he can fit into his tired lungs he rises to his feet
with tears in his eyes
he has failed