

You Could Be A King

A.S.A.P.

Memories in my mind, of another time
Now I feel it's right to share
The rebel in my soul is yours to tame
Life is not a cross we bear
Take a look around

Time flows like a river she goes
Make the best of what you've got
When a man is born into the earth he's thrown
Make this your paradise
You could be a king but it don't mean a thing
If what's in your heart remains unspoken
Look for the truth before it looks for you
Your heart strong and never broken

There's a city in the sky built for you and I
Keeps up dreaming on and on, on and on
Now I search for my soul, looking for a sign
Show you right where I went wrong
Take a look around

Time flows like a river she goes
Make the best of what you've got
When a man is born into the earth he's thrown
Make this your paradise
You could be a king but it don't mean a thing
If what's in your heart remains unspoken
Look for the truth before it looks for you
Your heart strong and never broken

Ride the storm, safe in your arms
Catch the sun to light your way
