

Lonely's To The Bone

Aaron Pritchett

I took her keys she took a cab
She made sure the front door slammed Between the rain and the whiskey, the whole thing's still a blur She caught a plane to San Antone i got that far then the trail went cold Since then i haven't heard a single word from her Now i found out that

All i've lost is all i want
An all i'll ever need
And i realize the deepest cut
can take a while to bleed Cause suddenly it hit me she left me all alone
And leavin's only skin deep
but lonely's to the bone

The phone'll ring once or twice I'll be some number I don't recognize But nobody's ever home when I call it back The door's unlocked the coffee's on The fire's burnin' but she still ain't home Don't know if i'll ever learn to live with that I found out that

All i've lost is all i want
An all i'll ever need
And i realize the deepest cut
left me all alone
And leavin's only skin deep
but lonely's to the bone

Yea it would me so easy if your memory'd just move on But leavin's only skin deep and lonely's to the bone
