Some Never Will

Aaron Watson

With the world in the palm of his hands Slipping through his fingers just like grains of sand He don't know his hourglass is losing time Till she run out of patience and leaves him far behind

Some lovers gotta learn love the hard way Before they understand the way they feel Some lovers are slower than others Some will come around and some never will

If only she had a dime every time he's done her wrong Or for every one wondering why she's still holding on She could buy that rodeo and shut it down Along with every honky tonkin' bar in town

Some lovers gotta learn love the hard way Before they understand the way they feel Some lovers are slower than others Some will come around and some never will

It may be his fault but she's still one to blame For taking him back and playing his foolish games

Some lovers gotta learn love the hard way Before they understand the way they feel Some lovers are slower than others Some will come around and some never will