

The Arrow

Aaron Watson

I've been heartbroke and broke down Hard up and hard fought Misunderstood, misguided
And I've missed by a long shot
I understand first hand I've been where you've been,
Don't you forget
Every sunset will become a sunrise soon again

So be bold and be brave
And beware of those schemes,
Stay razor sharp, find your mark
As you go chase your dreams,
Watch out for those dangers Always dancing in the dark,
When the shadows of the night shoot out the lights, I know you'll be the spark

So promise me before you go
follow your arrow,
You will pray to never stray from straight and narrow,
Be steadfast and steady,
always be ready,
Aim for the stars in the sky,
take heart, pull it back and let it fly

Good things come to those who pray so don't you chalk it up a chance,
And never let your arrow be led by arrogance,
Fill your quiver full of courage,
Show this world your heaven sent Keep a good head on your shoulders
Every arrow needs a fine piece flint

So promise me before you go
follow your arrow,
You will pray to never stray from straight and narrow,
Be steadfast and steady,
always be ready,
Aim for the stars in the sky,
take heart, pull it back and let it fly on the wings of an angel, Let it fly with the grace of a dove,
Through the lightning and thunder Never aimlessly wonder
Let it fly with kindness and love,
Let it fly with kindness and love

Let it fly
Let it fly

Promise me before you go
follow your arrow,
You will pray to never stray from straight and narrow,
Be steadfast and steady,
always be ready,
Aim for the stars in the sky,
take heart, pull it back and Promise me before you go

follow your arrow,
You will pray to never stray from straight and narrow,
Be steadfast and steady,
always be ready,
Aim for the stars in the sky,
take heart, pull it back and let it fly

So stand firm in your faith as you raise up your bow, Fear not the dragon,
You are the arrow
