

Missing You

Adina Howard

The rain falls
down on my window pane the silenced whispers things you used to say I close me eyes and I feel you near how I wish you were here holdin me close in your arms again my dear whispering sweet nothings in my ear the passion burns on how I miss my baby

Postcards and photographs
loveletters to you
late night phone calls to say
you love me too
oh how I miss you

The memories hanging on the walls of my mind soothes my soul
Lord knows I want my baby back home don't wanna spend another minute without you its been so long
the taste of our kiss fading baby, stay on my mind
the way i feel for you holds me close at night
but i'm still missing you

Postcards, and photographs
love letters to you
late night phone calls to say
you love me too
oh how I miss you

I lie awake at night wishing you were by my side

Postcards and photographs
love letters to you
late night phone calls to say
you love me too
oh how I miss you
(2x)

Postcards and photographs
love letters to you
late night phone calls to say
you love me too
oh how I miss you