

Something

Aerosmith

You're making me wait
Like there's no tomorrow.
You're taking from me
What I can't beg or borrow.

There's something that tells me that life has changed
There's something that tells me this isn't a game
There's something that tells me that you'll hit the floor
There's something that tells me
That you got everything you need but all you want is more.

You know there was dreams
I had in my corner.
I made you a dollar,
You gave a quarter.

There's something that tells me that life has changed
There's something that tells me this isn't a game
There's something that tells me that you'll hit the floor
There's something that tells me
That you got everything you need but all you want is more.

Yeah
Yeah

There's something that tells me that life has changed
There's something that tells me this isn't a game
There's something that tells me that you'll hit the floor
There's something that tells me
That you got everything you need but all you want is more.
