

Disconnect

After Midnight Project

Something has to change
We're falling further down the drain tonight
Flashing lights on billboard signs trashy clubs and careless minds we're alone
This filthy floor's a lonely bed while traffics roaring in my head again
I disconnect in to a dream
In a life that would seem
Just to real and overseen

I don't need another friend
(I'm trying with out you)
This could be our very last dance
(I breath you I feel you)
You stole my eyes at first glance
I don't need another friend

Maybe we're not as well put together as we thought
Oh well
I'm dancing in the pouring rain with a smile and a touch of pain it's Hell

I Disconnect I know tried
But no one else sees out
I'm caving in and I'm giving up
What else can I do?
I gave everything to you
The demons, the gods will have their way

I don't need another friend
(I'm trying with out you)
This could be our very last dance
(I breath you I feel you)
You stole my eyes at first glance
I don't need another friend

All I am is wrong and All we had is gone

I don't need another friend
(I'm dying with out you)
This could be our very last dance
(I breath you I feel you)
You stole my eyes at first glance
and I don't need another friend
