

Let it Burn

Agent Orange

i propose that we devise a plan down to every last detail - we cannot fail 'cause the only thing that's standing in our way is disastrous betrayal so let the driving force prevail now i'm falling back on all the dreams we left behind it's a lesson that i never thought i'd learn tonight i'm gonna sacrifice something i really love feel it melt into my hands and let it burn - all night long ever since the day it all began massive walls surrounding me - on every side now i hear a crash - they all come tumbling down as memories collide - i'm living for that wild ride could it be that i've forgotten what i came here for? when i leave this world, i never will return i know the only way for me to save my soul tonight is to light the midnight lamp and

let it burn - all night long

what can i say? you know what it means to me i would kill to be where i belong i know this thing could live endlessly but i can hear them saying