

Put Love in Your Life

Air Supply

I don't need money and possessions
I don't need things to weigh me down
I don't need to be under suspicion
For all the things that never come around
All I need is you and your affection
To be a part of everything you do
To break thru a lost communication
To let me know that everything is true

Put love in your life, find it today and hold me tonight
You know there will always be me
There will always be you
Put love in your life, open your heart it won't be denied
The one you thought could not be
Is waiting for you

I don't need anxiety to hold me
In the name of something to embrace
I don't need society to scald me
To pin me down and slap me in the face
All I need is you and your affection
To be the judge and jury in my life
Searching for that moment of perfection
To let me know we surely are alive

Put love in your life, find it today and hold me tonight
You know there will always be me
There will always be you
Put love in your life, open your heart it won't be denied
The one you thought could not be
Is waiting for you

The puzzled look the years of doubt
It all was meant to be
We can't escape the dreams we make
This feeling now just cannot wait
So share it with me
