

Would You Ever Walk Away

Air Supply

From this moment I will follow you
To the borders of my country
Will you make those promises come true
Will you always want to hold me

Would you ever walk away from love
Will your lips speak what is true
If you say that this is where you belong
That's all I want, from you

In the garden of my deepest soul
Is the seed to bring the future
It's the story that is young and old
And the student is the teacher

Would you ever walk away from love
Will your lips speak what is true
If you say that this is where you belong
That's all I want, from you

Wind and rain can never change what is to be
Lightning strikes across my heart so suddenly

Would you ever walk away from love
Will your lips speak what is true
If you say that this is where you belong
That's all I want, from you
