Everybody's Breakin' Up

Alannah Myles

It seems we're headed for a total breakdown It keeps on getting harder to connect If this is not a war between the sexes Well then some kind of hex is in effect

The ones we used to call the happy couple Have given up on romance altogether How that perfect one could come undone Looks like love's in for a run of nasty weather

Lines are down, streets are redded Pipes cracked, apartments gutted The tough are gettin' goin', 'cause the goin's gettin' tough Everybody's breakin' up

Verse:

It seems we've come upon some kind of impasse An ending to this fractured fairy tale What once upon a time were little home sweet homes Are now just houses up for sale

Streets ahush, a grim reminder No lovers laughter, no organ grinder He's out of work, the monkey run off with the cup Seems like everybody's breakin' up

Seven year itch, or mid-life crisis We're comin' unhitched, goin' back to old vices

The tough are gettin' goin' cause the goin's gettin' tough Everybody's breakin' up
