

Some Say I'm Running

Alecia Elliott

(Brent Bourgeois/Michael W.Smith)

Here I go, restless heart
Another lovely misadventure in the dark
All my friends who knew me when
Tell me not to wander down that road again
What they don't know, what makes me free

Some say I'm running
But I know I'm falling
Back to you

The water's deep under the bridge
As I pass by our old house up on the ridge
All our sin's have washed away
Now all that's left are all the things we didn't say
Oh restless heart you beat so fast
While my mind is telling me that it won't last

Some say I'm running
But I know I'm falling
Back to you

Against the odds I'll roll the dice
I guess my heart has won despite all good advice
So grab your things and come on in
And get to know your children once again
When does a fool stop being a fool
And since when is love obliged to any rules

Some say I'm running
But I know I'm falling
Back to you

Let's learn to give, let's work things out
Let's give them something else to talk about

Some say I'm running
But I know I'm falling
Back to you
