Fireball

Alice Cooper

On a dark, desert night Look into the sky, something ain't right A fireball, red and grey

People start to look, frozen in fear A man grabs a woman, draws her near They fall to their knees and pray

All mighty God... Is it today? Fireball, in the sky Fireball, in the sky

Hey, little boy with a cowboy gun His mom picks him up, he starts to run He laughs out loud, he thinks it's a game

The alarm goes off in the liquor store The trucks roll by with a thunderous roar It fell from the sky, a silver rain

All mighty God... The city's in flames

(All man alive - Can we survive?)

My alarm goes off, I'm shaking with fright Blood runs cold, teeth clench tight But it's alright now, It's only a dream

Well I go to the window, lean on the sill The night is hot, and all is still There's a blinding flash and now it's real

All mighty God... We died today Fireball, in the sky Fireball, in the sky...
