

Caught By The Moon

Alice In Wonderland

In the room of silent dreams
I've lost the light of life
'Now cold darkness embraces me
I'm blinded by my pain

Awoke in empty halls
While shadows where dancing on the walls
I try to grip the morning light
But there's just the silver gleam of a freezy night

A strange call pours into my head
Whispering through the darkness of my soul
Speaking softly and clear
Coming from a neverseen place

I have to leave this empty hall
I have to follow my inner call
The walls close in it's cold inside
No doors, no windows no single light

Hiding behind raving tears
The voice spoke to me again and took away my fear:

"This night will be black
So wait for the moonrise
It will be the key for your escape
But you will always be caught in his silver light."

I have to leave this empty hall...

On and on colours die
On and on the nightwind cries
On and on in a starfilled sea
A silver tear will shine on me

I have to leave this empty hall...
