

All The Rings Around Saturn

All About Eve

For all the rings 'round Saturn
I wouldn't change the pattern of my life
And if every star above me
Told me that they loved me
Then their love I would deny
At my window watching changes
Contemplating as the world is drifting by
Slowly walking through the ages
And imagining that I would never die
But who would take this gift of endless moves
For eternity exists here in this room
For all the rings 'round Saturn
I wouldn't change the pattern of my life
And if every star above me
Told me that they loved me
Then their love I would deny
In the daylight, through the darkness
I'm reflecting all extremes
Of being weak and strong
In my madness I'm on fire
All the rain may come and wash away my tears
No I don't need to venture from this place
Where an age leaves its impression on my face
For all the rings 'round Saturn
I wouldn't change the pattern of my life
And if every star above me
Told me that they loved me
Then their love I would deny
Please come and exchange all that they know from my world
And I'll fly away
Seasons spin their web (impatiently)
Oh how I trust their infinity...
