

We keep falling into love
With no reason, no rhyme
We keep falling into love
'Til our tired heart cries
I don't know you
And you don't know me
Time has come to find
Different skies

The sun and the moon collide
One burning, one reflecting
One fired up in demon red
One pale and interesting
We stand staring into the sun
And then we want to be it
Blindness of moths around a flame
And we can't see it
'Cause I know you
And you know me
And there's the reason why
'Cause I know you
And we know her
Time has come to find

A different sky,
A different place to shine
A different sky,
Without a reason why
Can't tell is it heaven or hell
Can't tell, I never lie
I can't fool myself,
So I found myself
A different sky

The sky I choose
Is a myriad of ocean blues
And when I think of you
I like to think your sky is blue too
Fireworks and clouds have made us find
A different sky