

Vicious Betrayal

All That Remains

Your lies consume me, with every breath I'm burning
How I believed that the truth was in your eyes
My life, now chaos and your tongue it breeds deceit
Wake from this nightmare I'll never love her again

My nights now filled with agony as your scent floats in the air
And salted rain that falls on my lips, I pray to God, "I'll not stumble again"

And I woke in chains these shackles tear my flesh
And blood that flows from these wounds flows back as night

Now count deception, I have no past she told me
Her words ring within my ears and chill my spine
Now as the rage builds I fear control is waning
I feel this shell that is restraint now crumble away

And salted rain now falls on my lips
I pray to God, "I'll not stumble again"

And I woke in chains and shackles tear my flesh
And blood that flows from these wounds flows back as night
Your lies consume me with every breath I burn
And now the past that should be kept haunts me at night

Chilled to the bone tongue sears my flesh
And your lies breed vicious betrayal
Stumble to the ground still she knows me best
And her lies breed vicious betrayal