

Something Cured

Allele

No sights, no blame
No conscience and there's
No shame...

There's always something to cure
Lost and adrift with no way
To shore...

But it's so simple and you should know
Yet it's so simple, this drowning is slow
It's so simple, and I know
That's it's so simple I can't wait to go...

And I don't have a cure
Been waiting for something else to come along
And I don't have a cure
The change is today, it's what I've been Waiting for...

You so right...
All the time oh, you could
Never answer a single lie
While you've become a waste of time
I'm taking back my self from the grind
If it's so simple
Then you should know
If it's so simple just
Let me out...

And I don't have a cure
Been waiting for something else to come along
And I don't have a cure
It's in your hands and pushes me down

But I can't walk this alone
It decays just what I know
A sense of facing I've along way to go
Can't you fake it
Just can't take it
I'm torn...
Will you watch over me (Save me...)

And I don't have a cure
Been waiting for something else to come along
And I don't have a cure
It's in your hands and it pushes me down...

I don't have a cure...

I don't have a cure
The change is today
It's what I've been Waiting for...
