Allen-Lande

I will wake up here alone as the tide it will turn
As the silence will grow
Maybe someone just like me
Could be there by your side
When your world turns to slow

If I fail, if I should fall
Will you stand by my side
Or just watch my demise?
Will you listen to my voice
As I speak from the heart
As I open your eyes?

Forever and a day
All you can give me is your pain
All the emotions that
You're feeding
You can see clearly from now on
You're begging me to stay
We'll live forever and a day
If you'll accept all that I offer
You'll live forever and a day

As the moments pass us by
As we lose all control in this thing we call life,
We will try to re-create all the moments of joy
All the moments of hate

You're still tied up in your chains
All the fears that you have all the fears you create
In this darkened room of mine
You will try to let go, you will let me inside

Forever and a day
All you can give me is your pain
All the emotions that you're feeding
You can see clearly from now on
You're begging me to stay
We'll live forever and a day
If you'll accept all that I offer
You'll live forever and a day

What am I to say?
All you can give me is your pain
Your eyes are screaming through your silence
Your eyes are begging me to stay

Forever and a day
All you can give me is your pain
All the emotions that
You're feeding
You can see clearly from now on
You're begging me to stay
We'll live forever and a day
If you'll accept all that I offer
You'll live forever and a day
