

Never Again

Allen-Lande

Her tiny voice makes such a noise
It still echoes in my mind
Do not speak, just try to sleep
Rest your weary head
It's time for me to leave now
It's time to set the record straight
It's time for me to leave now, she says

Never again, you won't trust in strangers again
The words the say, cut like razorblades
Time after time you say
Never again, you won't trust in strangers again
You pass them by, like the changing skies
Time after time you say

So full of life the waters run
Through the valleys down below
I sit and watch to clear my mind, trying to focus now
The lies have got to end now
She needs to know the truth somehow
The lies have got to end now, she says

Never again, you won't trust in strangers again
The words the say, cut like razorblades
Time after time you say
Never again, you won't trust in strangers again
You pass them by, like the changing skies
Time after time you say