

The Forgotten Ones

Allen-Lande

No one here to save you now
No one here to guard your soul
Only emptiness ahead
Waiting for your fear to win

But there is someone who remembers you
Someone waiting for a sign that leads the way to you
Someone who would die for you
Keep that in mind when the hope fails

When the world starts to cry
A life around you slowly dies
The forgotten ones will see
How you seek, how you try
To save an undone life from pain
The forgotten ones will know

No one here to wipe your tears
No one here to ease your grief
Only a deep darkness ahead
Waiting for the hope to leave

But there is someone who remembers you
Someone waiting for a sign that leads the way to you
There is someone who would die for you
Keep that in mind when the hope fails

When the world starts to cry
A life around you slowly dies
The forgotten ones will see
How you seek, how you try
To save an undone life from pain
The forgotten ones will know
Forgotten ones will know
The forgotten ones will know
The forgotten ones will know

There is someone who remembers you
Someone waiting for a sign that leads to you
There is someone who die for you
Keep that in mind when the hope fails

When the world starts to cry
A life around you slowly dies
The forgotten ones will see
How you seek, how you try
To save an undone life from pain
The forgotten ones will know
When the world starts to cry
A life around you slowly dies
The forgotten ones will see
How you seek, how you try
To save an undone life from pain
The forgotten ones will know

Forgotten ones will know...
