

Still Breathing

Allison Iraheta

I need an aspirin after you
Until you left I never knew
What my heart was really going through
And I never wanna go back
But if there's some sick twist of fate
I would rather in rest peace
Please do not resuscitate

I'm still breathing
Don't you think I'm not because you're leaving
Never gonna see me grieving
I'm moving up and away
Not crying
Funny, I'm not even trying
Never gonna lay down
I'm breathing much better
The air is much clearer, over you

Suffocating and I didn't know why
'til I realized you were standing
In the way of my air supply
Clear the air, I was about to die
I wondered why I didn't leave you way before
So I thought I was insane
But it was you who kept the oxygen
From getting to my brain

I'm still breathing
Don't you think I'm not because you're leaving
Never gonna see me grieving
I'm moving up and away
Not crying
Funny, I'm not even trying
Never gonna lay down
I'm breathing much better
The air is much clearer, over you

Over you, over you
Over your head
Out of your ear
Breathing so much better
Now that I'm away from you

I'm still breathing
Don't you think I'm not because you're leaving
Never gonna see me grieving
I'm moving up and away
Not crying
Funny, I'm not even trying
Never gonna lay down
I'm breathing much better
The air is much clearer, over you
