A Soft Place To Fall

Allison Moorer

Daylight has found me, here again You can ask me anything But where I've been Things that used to matter Seem so small When you're looking for A soft place to fall

Don't misunderstand me, baby please I didn't mean to bring back memories You should know the reason why I called I was looking for A soft place to fall

Looking for a soft place Nothing more than a small taste Of a love that ended long ago Looking for a place to hide Warm bed on a cold night I didn't mean to hurt you No no no

Looking out your window at the dawn Baby, when you wake up, I'll be gone You're the one who taught me, after all How to find a soft place to fall You're the one who taught me, after all How to find a soft place to fall