Torn

You think that you can have it But you have no time To hold control You think you own me So that you know

Let me take my time Let me mend my soul Let me keep it straight And let the feelings flow Let me take the time To let it go

Torn into pieces my heart To keep it, go on Let me find the selfness I forgot It keeps on going behind the curtains, avid To conceal my mind Not give it way But something keeps on Telling me to let in out To let it grow

Without eyes I make my way in wonder Burn my mind In my search for solutions Life unwinds I struggle with my passion Time, forever a cage In which I belong

My understanding fails me But I need no path To pursue my goal My vanity is jaded and it hurts my pride It fades my glow

Oh! Go!