Wrath of a Warchild

Altaria

From a land of frozen hearts
The messenger arrived
To tell them tears had turned to steel
And all the dreams had turned to dust

Then came the drums of thunder With pain and despair And after it all was over Something remained

The name of the game is war

The wrath of a warchild
The anger inside keeps calling thee
The wrath of a warchild
The lord of the dark will set you free

Deep in the shadows of the night The forces will hide out Until it's time to lose control Of the burning flame inside

Swords made of glowing metal Striking the cross At the throne of an evil nation Nothing is lost