Breath Again

Alter Bridge

I have played the part I have all but lost my soul And I have sacrificed For what it's worth, I just don't know

In the silence of my heart There is a distant call Yeah It beckons me to stand apart

So I set out on my own Just to breathe again Touch the light that calls me home Just to reach the end Where I'm free to breathe again

Through the suffering Through the misery and pain Never anything But the will to see the day When the promise might be born Light the spark within Yeah 'Cause I can't take it anymore

So I set out on my own Just to breathe again Touch the light that calls me home Just to reach the end Where I'm free to breathe again

Well I am free to roam And set out on my own To rise above the hands that try to hold me down Before the end, I know I'll breathe again To find my way

So I set out on my own Just to breathe again Touch the light that calls me home Just to reach the end

I'm leaving today
I'm leaving today
I'm leaving today