Home

Alter Bridge

Норе The only thing that we have left to hold In a world gone mad there's nowhere left to go Where nothing lasts there's permanence I know Is there something I can say? To bring back what once remained Where is all that we let go? Where is home? Doubt From inside I hear it calling out Tearing at the truth it must be found In the end it only brings me down Is there something I can say? To bring back what once remained Where is all that we let go? Where is home? If you need a reason a reason tonight To cast every doubt from your heart and your mind Look to tomorrow and maybe you'll find Something more. Something more.

Is there something I can say? To bring back what once remained Where is all that we let go? Where is home?