

Boy

Aly & AJ

I called you a sweet, boy
Your nothing but weak, boy
Yeah! You're nothing but weak, boy
I called you a loud, boy
You're only a bad boy
You're just not enough, boy

And I blame your mother
And I'll blame your father
Since you have a brother
I'll blame his mother

I wish I never laid my eyes
On that pretty face of yours
You have a heart that only a mother could love

I wanted a tree, boy
But you gave me a leaf, boy
It's nothing to me, boy
I gave you the world, boy
Without a return, boy
Now I'm just hurt, boy

And I blame your mother
And I blame your father
Now I'm back to wonder
What dragged me under

I wish I never laid my eyes
On that pretty face of yours
You have a heart that only a mother could love
And I wish I never laid my eyes on you
You have a broken heart that I could never touch

I'll plant it and see, boy
Now you watch it grow, boy
Long after I leave, boy
Long after I leave

I blame your mother
And I'll blame your father
Since you have a brother
I'll blame his mother

I wish I never laid my eyes
On that pretty face of yours
You have a heart that only a mother could love
And I wish I never laid my eyes on you
You have a broken heart that I could never touch

I gave you the world, boy
Without a return, boy
Now I'm just hurt, boy
