

Right Here All Along

Amanda Marshall

Shadow boxing in my head again
Lying here beside you in the dark
Making mountains out of nothin'
Hoping against hope and making deals with God
Then I feel you stir beside me
And you don't say a word but still I know

And in your eyes I see the reason
In your smile I see the road that takes me home
In my heart I know the answer
That all the things I looked so hard to find
Were right here all along, right here all along

Sometimes life can make you tired
You get so used to being on your own
Looking for something to count on
Wishing for a love that's carved in stone
But I can hear you through my worry
Your voice is telling me let go

In your eyes I see the reason
In your smile I see the road that takes me home
In my heart I know the answer
That all the things I looked so hard to find
Were right here all along, right here all along

When I needed someone to count on
You were right here all along
When I needed someone to lean on
You were right here all along

And when I needed a hand to hold
You were right here all along
And when I thought I had nobody baby
You were right here all along, ohh

And in your eyes I see the reason
In your smile I see the road that takes me home
In my heart I know the answer
That all the things I looked so hard to find

Within your eyes I see the reason
In your smile I see the road that takes me home
In my heart I know the answer
That all the things I looked so hard to find
Were right here all along, right here all along

I needed a hand to hold
Needed shelter from the cold
I needed a hand to hold
You give me shelter from the cold baby, yeah
Oh yeah, yeah

Just when I thought I had nobody baby
You were right here all along
And when I thought I had nobody, babe
You were right here all along
