

Just Happened

Amanda Somerville

Take me, touch me like this
How do you know so much about me?
I'd tell you I love you
But I don't think it would be right
And, quite frankly, I fear you'd doubt me
And, give the circumstance, we really shouldn't be here now
But somehow I cannot pull away
And I know
You have to go, but just lay a little longer
I would give anything for you to stay

How did we ever get so far gone?
I didn't mean for this to happen
Did you?
I love to be with you
A little too much, I think
But, hey, I guess sometimes these things happen
And it just happened

Four a.m. and right on time
We'll be quiet under the sky
I'd love to stay like this, but I know it isn't possible
You'll just disappear and I'll wonder why

And I know that, by some chance, you're going down just as hard
And we should really just call it here
Because we both know it's short-lived, and as it goes on day by day
It gets a little harder and harder to steer

How did we ever get so far gone?
I didn't mean for this to happen
Did you?
I love to be with you
A little too much, I think
But, hey, I guess sometimes these things happen
And it just happened

There's no one I'd rather waste my time with Nothing more sweet that I could do
And until the time comes when it gets too hard to bear
I'll do all I can to stay next to you

How did we ever get so far gone?
I didn't mean for this to happen
Did you?
I love to be with you
A little too much, I think
But, hey, I guess sometimes these things happen
And it just happened
