

Windows

Amanda Somerville

So many windows
I'm standing naked there inside
All eyes can see me
And there's no way to pull the blinds
I can't deny what I've confessed
I cannot run from how I feel
So be the shelter in my strife
Come remind me I'm alive

You stop the bleeding
And kiss away the tears that fall
Light up the shadows
And help me climb over my walls
And I'm not sure how much you know
How much your light has helped me grow
And you're the only one

Turn off the light
Bring on the night
I need to be unseen
I can't escape the wind biting its way in
Through all of my windows

It's never easy
I know, with all that I demand
It's not a given
All the burden you withstand
But I'm so grateful that you do
And maybe this is overdue
I know it's true, my Love

Turn off the light
Bring on the night
I need to be unseen
I can't escape the wind biting its way in
Through all of my windows again

Don't trust your eyes
Don't read my plight
Don't ask me what it means
My blessing and my bane
It calls me out by name
Carving out new windows

So many windows
They leave me naked here inside
All eyes can see me
Through my windows
