

Hold me now as I fight just to see you get through
Breaking out from our worlds torn apart
Some feel close, though we know they are far
Against all odds, we must learn from the start
That without you I can't carry on

I hear the sounds, It's deafening rings
With screams so loud, It's all I can take
So hear me out, I'm desperate and weak
I'm scared of the thought, To lose everything
But as long as you take one for me

Hold me now as I fight just to see you get through
Breaking out from our worlds torn apart
Some feel close, though we know they are far
Against all odds, we must learn from the start
That without you I can't carry on

There comes a time, In everyone's life
We're fragile and blind, It passes us by
In time you'll find, to cherish this life
With moments to spare, We'll leave this behind
As long as you know I'll be fine

Hold me now as I fight just to see you get through
Breaking out from our worlds torn apart
Some feel close, though we know they are far
Against all odds, we must learn from the start
That without you I can't carry on

There's somewhere between every star in the sky
We're made up as one, just this moment in time
Where everything feels like it's just you and I
Though everything gives you no reason to try

There's somewhere between every star in the sky
It's setting me free as I look to your eyes
So seemingly still you can breathe tonight

Hold me now as I fight just to see you get through
Breaking out from our worlds torn apart
Some feel close, though we know they are far
Against all odds, we must learn from the start
That without you I can't carry on
That without you I can't carry on
