Just My Soul Responding

Amber Run

Oh, and I wanna be here when morning comes When the stars in the sky fade into one Oh, and I wanna be here when times are hard When the beating of your heart is like a drum But every day I found new ways to hurt you And every day We took our sides

And it's just my soul responding to the heavy heart I'm holding And it's just my soul responding to the love you took from me

Oh, and I wanna be here when morning comes When the stars in the sky fade into one Oh, and I wanna be here when times are hard When the beating of your heart is like a drum But every day I found new ways to hurt you And every day We took our sides

And it's just my soul responding to the heavy heart I'm holding And it's just my soul responding to the love, to the love, you took from me And it's just my soul responding to the heavy heart I'm holding And it's just my soul responding to the love, to the love, you took from me And it's just my soul responding to the heavy heart I'm holding And it's just my soul responding to the love, to the love, you took from me
