Once Sealed in Blood

Amon Amarth

It's five years since I left this land Since I left my friends to burn Five years making bitter plans Preparing my return

All this time my hatred's grown The one thing on my mind The hate in me is all I've known The one thing keeping me alive

Bold words spreads across the land Bragging tongues speak carelessly Know they not what is to come I'll hunt them down restlessly

The oath I swore, once sealed in blood A seal between loyal friends I swore before ancient Gods I will have revenge

I swore! Before my Gods! An oath! Once sealed in blood

Now here I stand in pouring rain As he comes riding down the path He will learn the meaning of pain As subject to my endless wrath

He will be the first to pay For the bragging words he spoke He'll regret that fateful day My friends perished in smoke

I swore! Before my Gods! An oath! Once sealed in blood

So here I stand on the road With cold steel in my hand As he looks into my unforgiving soul His tears begins to run

One man down 29 to go Consider yourselves warned I'm coming for the rest of you And I will have no remorse
