

Day To Day

Amy Millan

Darkness falls across the land
And the first stars twinkle into sight
And the moon on the trees is beautiful
But not so lovely as you
But not so lovely as you

Day to day we work away
To earn the time to make for play
So rare to take the time to sit
And stare into your eyes
And stare into your eyes

Before I found this place with you

My heart was kept inside a cage
But now it flies on feathered wings
And finds it's way to you
It finds it's way to you

My love for you, it's like a river
It runs and falls and goes on forever
I can't see around each bend
But still I love you more
But still I love you more

Darkness falls across the land
And the first stars twinkle into sight
And the moon on the trees is beautiful
But not so lovely as you
But not so lovely as you
