

We'll Play With Fire Ants Until The Water Floods The Mound

Amyst

It's too late to change. We've been hiding, pretending to play a game, every face I see is yours, We should have seen this coming,
The bridge breaks the wind and I see your gentle, scared figure
,

I'll wipe the fear from your eyes and whisper (into your ear)
"I know you're scared (and I'm scared too), but we'll paint our faces blue,
and sink down, we'll take our time, just me and you"

these thoughts would make you smile, if only I could see it will you still believe in us After they eat the rest of me.
Or will you let go and let yourself breathe long enough for the world to take you and me to forgive you

I'll wipe the fear from your eyes and whisper (into your ear)
"I know you're scared (and I'm scared too), but we'll paint our
faces blue,
and sink down, we'll take our time, just me and you"

Please hold my last breath through our kiss and fall, asleep to the memory of this It's too late to change us, we're already gone, we should have seen this coming
Please hold my last breath, its too late to change us