Heavy On My Heart

Anastacia

Try to fly away but it's impossible And every breath I take gives birth to deeper sighs And for a moment I am weak so it's hard for me to speak Even though we're underneath the same blue sky If I could paint a picture of this melody It would be a violin without it's strings And the canvas in my mind sings the songs I left behind Like pretty flowers and a sunset

It's heavy on my heart, I can't make it alone Heavy on my heart, I can't find my way home Heavy on my heart, so come and free me It's so heavy on my heart

I've had my share of pleasure and I've tasted pain I never thought i would touch an angel's wing There's a journey in my eyes It's getting hard for me to hide Like the ocean at the sunrise

Love can you take me in the darkness? And love don't let me down There's a journey in my eyes It's getting hard for me to hide And I never thought I'd touch an angel's wing