

The Vaults of Heaven

Andrew Lloyd Webber

The Keys to the vaults of heaven
May be buried somewhere in a prayer
The Keys to the vaults of heaven
May be heavy or lighter than air
Open up the vaults
Open up the vaults
We've got to find the keys
The nights have been growing darker
Even darker now than sin
We'll open the vaults of heaven
The treasures are there within
The keys to the vaults of heaven
May be seen in a pure child's eyes
The keys to the vaults of heaven
May be heard in our desperate cries
Open up the vaults
Open up the vaults
We've got to find the keys
The nights have been growing darker
Even darker now than sin
We'll open the vaults of heaven
The glories are there within
The Keys to the vaults of heaven
May be buried somewhere in a prayer
The Keys to the vaults of heaven
May be heavy or lighter than air
We've got to find the keys
We've got to find the keys
To open up the vaults
The nights have been growing darker
They're so much darker now than sin
We'll open the vaults of heaven
The answers are there within
We've got to find the keys
We've got to find the keys
To open up the vaults
The nights have been growing darker
They're so much darker now than sin
We'll open the vaults of heaven
The answers are there within