

Alone in the Wind

Andrew W.K.

Will you tell me why you cry?
In the wind, alone with pain
Why do you regret your love
There's no honor in confessing your lies
If we want to be grown up
We've got to go through all the rain
After all that you've endured
You're all alone for today

And what good would it really do
For me to comfort you
Ain't a living soul
Who can meet your needs
For today, you're alone
Standing in the wind
And then you'll see that tomorrow
Will forever be

Will you tell me why you cry?
Was the wind too heavy for you?
You're feeling empty and afraid
Your broken heart is covered in sand
If we want to be grown up
We've got to go through all the rain
After all that you've endured
You're all alone for today