

Love Made Me a Fool

Andy Williams

Love made me a fool, now it's too late
Now here I stand alone while you slip away
I can't believe that you play a fool of me
Everybody knew, everyone but me
Why was I so blind? I couldn't even see
Love made a fool of me

Love made me a fool, it broke my heart
How could it be so cruel? It tore me apart
Was it just a game? Was I your toy?
When you play at love you brought me joy
Now you've had your share, you've gone and I can see
Love made a fool of me

I lie awake and feel the pain
Never again, never again

Love made me a fool, it's over now
Though I will be alone, I'll get along somehow
At first I'll find it hard to live without you near
And then I'll make a start, pretend that you weren't here
And learn to love again, forget the misery
Love made a fool of me
Love made a fool of me