Lazy Afternoon

Ann Hampton Callaway

A far pink cloud hangs over the hill Unfolding like a rose
If you hold my hand and sit real still You can hear the grass as it grows

It's a hazy afternoon and I know a place that's quiet Except for daisies running riot
And there's no one passing by it to see
Come spend this lazy afternoon with me, with me