

Come undone

Anna Abreu

Out of the corner of my eye
I see two figures passing by
I can't resist the urge
To see what's going on with you
She kisses you and takes you to the corner table

It's been raining for weeks now
The tears on my cheeks ain't gonna dry
Cause the sun fell from my sky

And they say that life goes on
And you must be strong
But you know, there is something wrong
All the beauty's gone
Do you know what it's like
When it falls on you
And you try to carry on
But you've come undone

She talks to you but you don't hear
There's no more fire in your eyes
Like you were lost somewhere
And when you leave, it's just a glimpse
Your eyes and mine secretly meet
You stumble to the street

Well the sun peeks out to greet
The tears on my cheeks
Are shining like a flame that will not die

And they say that life goes on
And you must be strong
But you know, there is something wrong
All the beauty's gone
Do you know what it's like
When it falls on you
And you try to carry on
But you've come undone

Oh Lord, please let the sun
Shine on me again
I may be a fool, don't you know
But I need you baby

And they say that life goes on
And you must be strong
But you know, there is something wrong
All the beauty's gone
Do you know what it's like
When it falls on you

And I'm not the one
