No, I Don't Remember

Anna Ternheim

No, I don't remember What brought us to this What places we blindly passed What turns we missed When things really mattered And we really cared Simply being was easy Just having you there I was on a downslide, wasting my days Then I met you and came to such a lovely place We laughed and cried our way through The days and nights The weeks and months And all the seasons ups and downs Remind me of how I used to feel Remind me of who I used to be Back when nothing could come between us Back when that thought would never leave us 'Cause I don't remember Love needles and the hay The life I knew by heart and lived everyday The secret codes and signs You and I eye to eye Wake me up, hurt me, you have to! I forgot how to cry Remind me of how I used to feel Remind me of who I used to be Back when nothing could came between us then Back when that thought would never leave us
