

Circles

Anneke van Giersbergen

My friend, an angel in disguise
We live, in a world that's full of lies
You are, always on your own
Even so

You're holding out a lifeline
You're holding on to love
You'll never give up hope

When all we do is run around in circles
And everyone is searching for the answers
You close your eyes, you're ready to start over
And again, you leave the past behind

My friend, the comfort of your home
Your hands, will sit me down and rest
You always will

Hold out a lifeline
You're holding on to love
You'll never give up hope

When all we do is run around in circles
And everyone is searching for the answers
You close your eyes, you're ready to start over
And again, and again

Keeping me warm
Even the coldest days won't scare you away
I reach for your hands
Don't you let me slip away
Just hold on to me
For one more day

When all we do is run around in circles
And everyone is searching for the answers
You close your eyes, you're ready to start over
And again

You leave the past behind