I Choose Now

Anthony Evans

I don't want tragedy to be the only Thing that leads me to your throne With every moment of my life With pain or joy I will cry You are God alone You've given me the choice to kneel or walk away I've struggled with surrender long enough to say

I choose now To be humbled in your presence I choose now To fall on my face Cause one day Every knee will bow but Jesus I choose now.

I have the scars I can't deny from Thoughtless words and foolish times But you still forgave I wondered down a thousand roads Lost my way but you led me home Where I was safe I know heaven is a gift of your grace But until I see your face

To glorify your name That's why I was made To worship and obey I won't wait
