Different Worlds

Antidote

I don't like the feeling of reality Whenever I don't want it it is chasing me One moment you're alive, the next you're a machine So full of energy, it makes me wanna scream

I live in different worlds or so it seems One is to survive, the other holds my dreams No matter how I try they just won't mix But I'm gonna get through I'm gonna get my kicks

I'll live the life, the life I wanna lead I'll lick my wounds, I will no longer bleed I'll leave my troubles and worries far behind No one can take away this state of mind!

Safety in numbers safety in pins This is where the good times begin