

Race Against Time

Anvil

Sitting in my time machine blasting through all time
Watching fractured memories, my future is left behind
Seasons passing in a blink, days pass by to years
Take me to a better place, save me from my fears

The future, the past
New horizons, through time I blast
Race against time

Past the golden gates of paradise in the land that time forgot
Retrieve the wishes of your dreams, the things in life you sought
Beyond your wildest fantasies, your eyes you won't believe
Pioneer a new frontier, another concept to conceive

The future, the past
New horizons, through time I blast
Race against time

Travelled through the centuries of uncalculated time
When laws of physics are broken it's not considered a crime
You can stand and watch as battles rage and people die in vain
Like watching an old time movie over and over again

No future, no past
Lost horizon, will we last?
Race against time